

RECENT ISSUES

Churn rate has spiked by 254.55% on April 27, and CAC has increased by 19.53% on May 2, indicating potential customer acquisition and retention issues.

PERFORMANCE SHIFTS

churn_rate:	UP	254.55%	(April 27)
CAC:	UP	19.53%	(May 2)

CAUSAL ANALYSIS

[HIGH] The sudden increase in churn rate on April 27 may be caused by a change in customer behavior or a Evidence: The churn rate increased from 0.0023 to 0.0117 on April 27, while CAC increased from $24.6297 to $31.387 on May 2.

STRATEGIC ACTIONS

[NOW] Review customer feedback and product logs to identify potential issues causing the spike in churn rate.

Owner: product

[THIS_WEEK] Analyze the impact of the increased CAC on customer acquisition costs and consider adjusting marketing strategies to optimize ROI.

Owner: marketing

[MONITOR] Monitor the churn rate and CAC metrics closely to ensure that the issues are being addressed and the company is not experiencing further decline.

Owner: ops

WATCH LIST

refund_rate:	Refund rate has remained steady at 0.05, but a change in this metric could indicate issues with custom
conversion_rate:	Conversion rate has decreased from 0.0293 to 0.0207, indicating potential issues with marketing effec